17 When cases that appear to be related have been assigned to different courts, the judge 18 with the latest-filed case may refer his matter to the other judge for a determination of 19 whether the cases are in fact related. See Local Civil Rule 3-12(c).20 On behalf of himself and others similarly situated, Plaintiff Robin Hood has charged
21 the United States and others for violations of the Racketeer-Influenced & Corrupt
22 Organizations Act. The Complaint is difficult to interpret.23 After careful examination of the docket, this Court has determined that Hood's action
24 might be related to Robin Hood, et al. v. U.S. Government, Banking Industry, et al., No. 12-
25 1542 ("Robin Hood I").26 Hood filed Robin Hood I on March 27, 2012, and was assigned to Judge Susan Illston.
27 Hood then filed this case on April 10, 2012. He additionally notified this Court of his desire 28 to proceed before Judge Illston. See Declination to Proceed (dkt. 3).

1        Accordingly, pursuant to Rule 3-12(c), the Court refers this case straightway to the 2 Honorable Judge Susan Illston for a determination of whether this action relates to Robin 3 Hood, et al. v. U.S. Government, Banking Industry, et al., No. 12-1542.
